

Abstract

Method for the exchange of personal information in a step-by-step fashion in non-trusted peer-to-peer environments

The invention relates to a method for the exchange of personal information in non-trusted peer-to-peer environments in a step-by-step fashion, in which the information preferably prepared as a graphics display is segmented into several individual sections and is subsequently alternately exchanged between the communication partners.

Fig. 1